Let's Eat Good Food

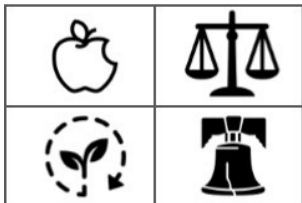

The Philadelphia Food Policy Advisory Council (FPAC) Good Food Procurement Subcommittee developed this Guide to help consumers find businesses offering food that meets at least two of the four 'good food' values: healthy, fair, sustainably-sourced, and locally-owned.

HEALTHY  The menu offers a variety of healthy options including water or no calorie beverages; fruit and vegetable appetizers, sides or salads prepared healthily; whole grain side dishes; entrees that are grilled, roasted, baked, or poached; vegetarian-based dishes; and low-sodium or heart healthy offerings.	FAIR  The business embodies fair labor practices for its own business and its suppliers, reflected in the fact that it has no OSHA violations, sources from a third-party certified farm, and engages in at least one of the business worker certifications or best practices.
SUSTAINABLY-SOURCED  The business is proactively working in at least three of the five sustainability areas: animal welfare (including being vegan or vegetarian), organic ingredients, fair trade, local sourcing, and other green activities.	LOCALLY-OWNED  The business has a valid commercial activity license with the City of Philadelphia and either has more than 50% of full-time workers working in the city 60% of the time, or the principal place of business is located in the city.
